EX-PRESIDENT Harrison has retired from the practice of law after a long and most successful and honorable career in that profession.

So far every county in the State which has held its convention has instructed for Bradley save the little county of Robertson, which has a candidate for Lieut. Governor. Already more than 800 delegates are instructed for Bradley, more than enough to nominate him on the first ballot.

The recent cold snap was pretty general over the country and the damage done to crops will amount to millions. Ice an inch thick is reported from some of the eastern counties of this State, and the fall of temperature from New York to the Mississippi was such as to do immense damage.

SECRETARY Carlisle will come to Kentucky and sound the keynote of the Administration on the currency question, which is at present dividing the Democratic party. Mr. Carlisle stands firmly for sound money. He has made appointments for Louisother points.

JUNE 17th is the day set apart for the proposed vote on the saloon question—just a month off.

COME out to-morrow and assist in nominating the State ticket that will be elected in November.

UNCLE Sam will soon get a bump on himself in building the Rough River Locks and eighteen months or less will find Hartford with steamers at her wharf. And then, go 'way, railroads.

JACK Frost made a raid on the vegetable kingdom Monday night and in consequence many a row of beans and other member of the kingdom turned its toes to the daisies.

CIRCUIT Court convenes next Monday and with it the Grand Jury. The gentlemen composing this body will have the moral support of all good people in their efforts to crush out the selling of liquor in the county.

THE national game in Ohio county seems to be just about as dead this season as the proverbial last year's bird's nest. So far there has scarcely been a game played in the county and very few teams are making headway in organizing. This state of affairs is hailed by some as a great and abundant blessing and by others as just as great a calamity—depends a great deal upon how you look at it.

THE latest sensation in the gubernatorial race is the announcement that Billy Breckinridge would be the Democratic nominee instead of either Hardin or Clay. Heretofore the Democracy's plight has been a dilemma, for with either Hardin or Clay as their candidate they are beaten beyond serious question. To add Breckinridge merely changes the situation from a dilemma to a trilemma, for neither of them can be elected Governor of this great Commonwealth over Billy Bradley.

YOUNG Shipp was acquitted at Lexington last week for the killing of the negro Brown in that city some time ago. Shipp, who was a young white man from Midway had debauched Brown's wife and on the night of the killing went to Brown's house to meet the latter's wife, and when Brown objected to his insults, Shipp killed him in his own house.

In what striking contrast was the decision of this jury with public sentiment in the Gordon-Brown case. In the latter the wronged husband avenged the dishonor of his home and before the bar of public opinion stands justified. In the former the wronged husband is shot down in his own house by the despoiler of that home and the jury justifies the despoiler. The Kentucky Leader, the leading paper of Lexington, commenting upon this unjust verdict says editorially:

"The Leader's denunciation of the acquittal of Shipp is universally commended, and a score of approving messages were received last evening from all classes of citizens. We have never before heard a verdict so universally denounced, and it is possible that the startling miscarriage of justice in this case may arouse a healthier public sentiment as to the value of human life and the punishment of him who takes it under any guise or pretense."

"The most notable and encouraging phase of the aftermath of the Shipp trial is the unanimity with which the white people of Lexington condemn the verdict, although it acquitted a white man of the murder of a negro. The universal expression of disapproval is the strongest proof that the good people of Lexington want to see the law vindicated without regard to color or social condition."

THE Democratic Convention of the First Railroad District met at Owensboro Wednesday and at once went wild on the finance question. The Free Silver and Sound Money men are having a big fight, and no news of the nomination had been received at time of going to press. Dempsey seems to have the advantage but a combination may defeat him.

ALL this hue and cry in Kentucky about the financial question is not alone to shield the Democracy from the responsibility of its miserable failure in the administration of national affairs. Its object farther than that, is to divert the minds of the people away from State affairs and the woful mismanagement which has characterized Democratic supremacy at Frankfort. What the people of Kentucky are now most interested in is the determining which party is most worthy of their confidence in the control of State affairs.

THE Kentucky Educational Association meets at Lexington Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 1, 2 and 3. The committee has published a very interesting program for the occasion and Ohio county talent is liberally recognized. Beside Prof. McHenry Rhoads, who is President, and whom Ohio county claims as one of her favorite sons, County Supt. Shultz is appointed, with others, to discuss the question "Is Teaching a Profession?" Miss Maggie D. Williams has been assigned as the subject of an address—"Woman as an Educator," and Prof. J. D. Coleman is appointed, with others, to discuss the question, "How to Grow a School." Our neighboring Superintendents, W. W. Lewis, of Muhlenberg; J. W. Mastin, of Hawesville, and J. R. Ashlock, of Hardin, are also assigned to places on the program. The meeting promises to be the most interesting in the history of the Association, and Ohio county should be well represented. Beside the benefit to be derived from the work of the Association the trip to the Blue Grass Capital will amply repay the expenditure. The railroads will give one fare for the round trip.

YOUNG man, how do you propose spending your vacation? This is a question that should appeal with force to every student. It may be that you have studied very hard during the five or ten months and you may persuade yourself that you will from June 1st to September 1st be entirely free from every care. You will throw every responsibility aside and indulge yourself in every whim and caprice. There is danger here. Rest, of course. But rest does not mean idleness. Have you studied the sciences until your mind feels surfeited and you want to unbend and let the mind go untrammelled? Well, that's all right, but be careful. You can rest the mind best from one course of study, not by absolute idleness, but by changing your employment or the character of your study. Read some useful book during vacation along a different line of thought, from that you have pursued in school. It will do you good, too, if you will only now and then spend a half hour reviewing what you have gone over in school. You can in this way determine how much you have learned and how well you have learned it. By all means rest during vacation, but do not be idle.

AFREAK

In Finance is Marion County's Democratic Candidate for Representative.

Spalding is his name and he was Nominated by the Committee.

LEBANON, KY., May 13, '95.
The matter of which I will write, the Legislative race in Marion county, is too remote from the greater number of your readers to be of much interest to them, only so far as it will deal with National issues. The manner, however, in which the Democratic candidate, Mr. C. C. Spalding, would solve the free silver coinage question, had he the power, is so unique, is so original and at the same time so satisfactory, to himself, it can not fail to be of general interest everywhere.

His theory has been published in the Louisville Commercial, but as your esteemed weekly reaches many that the city daily does not I will give it for the benefit of your readers.

The Democracy of Marion, was unwilling to risk a primary election this time, their favorite method, for settling the claims of several aspirants to Legislative honors by the Democratic road, neither would they call a convention, but to eliminate many serious questions which now confront them, as conditions and not theories, and to avoid, within their own ranks, discussions of many things which they thought had better not be discussed between Democrats, the Democratic Committee for the county took the bit in their teeth, declared themselves sole arbiters of the whole matter and eliminating the desires, to whom on all former occasions they have bowed in the most abject manner, by virtue of the power and authority vested in them, which was never before claimed nor asserted, they declared the Hon. C. C. Spalding, a Spalding with a very large S, the regular nominee of the Democracy of Marion county to represent the county in the next Legislature. So now, he and the Committee, call him the nominee, while about two out of every three Democrats one meets will "wink the other eye" when nominee is mentioned.

On the evening of the day, on which he was so declared the nominee, he was approached by a gentleman on the street in Lebanon, and asked his position on the silver question. He said he was for the free and unlimited coinage of silver, declaring that the Government stamp on it gave it value, that anything bearing that stamp, even leather, would be good money, that there was no intrinsic value in money and only as the stamp and credit of the Government gave it value. He did it possess any. When asked what he would do with the silver from other countries that might be unloaded on us, he said coin it all, all that was brought to us. The silver from England coin and put England's stamp on it. From France coin it and place the stamp of France thereon; from Germany do likewise and so on down the whole line. Becoming, in short, the great international counterfeiter of the world. I will do Mr. Spalding the justice to state here that after these facts were published on him, in the Commercial, and he was advised by better informed friends that such silly stuff would not stand a moment with sensible people, he wrote an article to the Commercial denying having so expressed himself, but the Commercial's correspondent promptly proved it on him by a reputable gentleman, and a good Democrat, and Mr. Spalding now lets the matter rest.

Thus does the map who aspires to again represent this county in the Legislature propose to solve the financial problem. I say again, for he represented this county once before, yes in that long Legislature, during the weary and dreary sessions of which, nearly every honest man, and woman too, for that matter, cried out in their soul, Oh! for a Cromwell to prorogue that body. He was elected to that Legislature without opposition in his own party, for the same reason he is declared, in the very peculiar manner we have noted, the nominee of his party now. He is a Spalding. Marion county was a Democratic county then, he had no opposition from Republicans, they being not only afraid to tackle a Democrat against great odds, but particularly a Spalding. For a long time it has been considered useless to run against a Spalding in this county. There is always a few of them in some of the county offices. The family is a very large one in the county, and a very honorable one, and they are justly proud of the name for many good and honorable citizens have graced it. It has come, however, to be doubted if the name alone is now a talisman sufficient to insure success. An occasional one, who perhaps is not a familiar object within the more circumscribed and charmed circle of Spalding exclusiveness, or mayhap who has taken a wife from beyond the plains wherein the true stock tabernacle, even from the plains of Moab, is some times defeated in this county, but it seldom occurs. Mr. C. C. Spalding, is however, from the choicest inner circle. He is the most exclusive of all the exclusiveness of Spalding exclusively. He is high G. in the Spalding family. He stands on the top most round of the ledger lines of the staff. Napoleon; "wrapped in the solitude of his own originality" was not more alone than is Mr. Spalding so far as being in touch with the common people is concerned.

Born with the proverbial silver spoon in his mouth, he has been reared in the lap of luxury and ease. Has been fenced around with comforts all his life and freed from all care. Has never required the effort of his hand, nor the exertion of his intellect, to aid in his own existence, add to his comfort, or enhance his pleasure. If he knows anything of his fellow men, outside a charmed circle, of their wants and needs, of their desires, hopes and fears, of the great industrial interests of his State or of the Nation, it is in theory only. A vague, dreary, listless theory, in consonance with the Sybaritic life from his youth up he has led.

Why was one so far removed from the people selected to represent them? Too plain why. Running on his family's name. His family connection, his fathers money. Mr. Spalding is a gentleman of good character, good habits, fair understanding, reasonably good education, personally unobjectionable, but there is not a man in Marion county who would think him available timber for the Legislature if he were not the son of Mr. Sam Spalding. That possibly makes him the strongest candidate they could have selected. My views on him, are like his on money. As a candidate, nothing intrinsic in him. It is the Spalding stamp that gives value to him as a candidate, as he believes the Government stamp will give value to money.

It will remain to be seen if the people want that kind of a man, that kind of an influence, to represent them. His idea on silver is about as good as any he may have on current affairs.

The Republican committee for Marion county has ordered a convention to be held in Lebanon the first Monday in August to nominate a candidate for the Legislature. After that the fun will commence, as the Republicans have determined on an aggressive campaign. They fully expect Hon. John W. Lewis to be chosen U. S. Senator by the next Legislature and Marion county is anxious to have a representative who will vote for him.

On Saturday May the 4th the Republicans of Marion elected, by precincts, a new county committee which met in Lebanon, the following Monday, and organized, electing a chairman and secretary, of the committee. Capt. A. Offutt, the old Sherman bumper, as our friends the enemy would call him, but of whom we are proud to speak, as the gallant staff officer of Gen. E. H. Murray, on Sherman's grand march to the sea, was chosen chairman of the committee, Maj. L. M. Drye, who for so many years served the party faithfully in that capacity, by his own request having retired from it.

The most noticeable thing about the new committee was its membership. Three men, who just prior to last November election were three of the most prominent Democrats in the county, two of them being members of the Democratic county committee and one of them a Democratic judge of election at that election and now on our county committee. The delegation from Marion to the Republican State Convention will have in it six of the most prominent Democrats in the county, formerly Democrats, this being their first steps in the right direction. Who says Democracy is not fast playing out? C. J.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The Return of Prosperity.
Democratic contemporaries all over this nation are seizing with feverish grasp every bit of news that seem to indicate that prosperity is returning. Whenever a mill long closed is reopened, editorial praises of the Wilson bill is heard. If a concern raises wages that were formerly reduced the glories of the Wilson bill are resung. Democratic papers are to-day on a steady hunt for prosperity, and it must be admitted that they are finding it. The Times will admit that prosperity is returning. Business is slowly awakening.

But for prosperity to return, it first had to depart. When did it depart? That is the question which most interests the voter of to-day. The nation knows that when Benjamin Harrison left office there was no fear of this late collapse of industry. Mills were running on full or over time. No one spoke of reducing wages. No industries feared for their lives. When Grover Cleveland entered upon his second term he found a full treasury and a happy country. He found himself reinforced with a Democratic Congress that promised the nation untold wealth. The work was undertaken. The pall of Free-Trade fell upon the land. Mills began to close and employers to cut down wages. Had Free-Trade been the outcome of Democratic legislation there would not be even the light revival which business assumes to-day. There would have been no end to the panic of '93 and '94.

Since the Wilson bill went into effect the manufacturer who feared entire Free-Trade and took precautionary measures accordingly, has learned what to fear and has gone back to manufacturing, unless the cut in his tariff was so great that it allowed the entrance of foreign goods into deadly competition with the American goods. There have been many such industries. There has been no return of prosperity for them. They are dead.

There have been industries injured by the Wilson Tariff. By the McKinley Tariff not a machinery ceased to smoke, not a fire was banked. No plants were transferred to foreign shores in search of cheaper labor when the McKinley bill was passed.

Yes, prosperity is returning. The consumptive at times seems brighter and stronger than usual, but it is no return of health.—[Brooklyn Daily Times, April 13, 1895.]

If you fail to attend the Ellendale Fair this year you will miss the greatest treat of your life.

Miss Katherine Whipple, of Louisville, who has been engaged by Miss Maggie Nall and her class as vocalist in the concert on Tuesday night, May 28th, recently played a leading part in "Egypta" at Masonic Temple.

The play was a great success and in speaking of Miss Whipple the Courier-Journal of the 10th, inst., says: "For Miss Katherine Whipple little need be said; the appearance of her name in a leading part is in itself a guarantee that those who attended 'Egypta' and those who shall attend the future performances, will be rewarded with a rare treat of vocal art. Miss Whipple hardly passes as an amateur in music. Louisville knows and is proud of those attainments in her art which have won for her the commendation of high metropolitan authorities."

The Woman's Club of Louisville gave a splendid entertainment at Music Hall on the afternoon of May 1st, at which Miss Katharine Whipple, beside delivering an able and highly praised address on "Woman's Work in Music," furnished the vocal music for the occasion. In speaking of Miss Whipple's singing the Commercial of May 2nd, says: "Miss Whipple displayed rare taste in the choosing of her songs. 'The Dead Ship' and 'April Weather,' both by Margaret Ruthven Lang. They were widely dissimilar in character, and besides illustrating the versatility of the composer, gave Miss Whipple the opportunity for the display of her beautiful voice and admirable technique, the first song being decidedly dramatic, and the second a light, airy and joyous bit of melody, sung with a spirit and charming vivacity that was delightful."

In Memory.

Died at her home near Stanley, Ky., May 5, 1895. Mrs. Sara Ann Bennett, wife of Wm. J. Bennett, in her seventy-seventh year. Her funeral was preached at Mt. Hermon by Rev. G. J. Bean, after which her remains were interred at the Old Mill graveyard. She had been for many years a member of the M. E. Church, South. She leaves a husband and seven children to mourn her loss. We look upon the devoted family, grief-stricken and desolate on account of their loss, but for our christian faith, what hope would cheer the gloom that lingers around the grave? Like a rainbow it spans the drearful expanse of death and lights up the beautiful world before the sunset radiant glow. Dear grandmother hath left us; Here thy loss we deeply feel; But 'tis God who has bereft us—He can all our sorrows heal.

He Deceived the People.

At Atlantic, Iowa, on May 7, C. M. Ailor, alias "Crip," Ailor, was convicted of deceiving the people by selling a worthless compound, which he represented to be Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was sentenced by the Judge Macy to one year at hard labor in the Iowa State Penitentiary. Ailor's methods were those of a traveling fakir. He has been traveling through Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, making stands of a day or more in each town, and representing himself as an agent under salary from C. I. Hood & Co., and selling his concoction at one dollar or fifty cents per bottle, giving with each sale various other worthless articles. Citizens of Griswold, Iowa, became suspicious and ascertaining from a druggist that Ailor's compound was not Hood's Sarsaparilla, but merely colored water, had him arrested. Three indictments were found against him, the jury convicted him after only thirty minutes deliberation, and he was sentenced as above. This incident suggests the wisdom of purchasing medicines only of reputable dealers whom you know. Hood's Sarsaparilla is never sold by peddlers, and such offering it should be, or to C. I. COMMENTS SUICIDE.

ELIZABETHTOWN, KY, May 12.

Mrs. Nancy Rudey committed suicide by throwing herself in front of a swiftly moving freight train near the L. & N. station house, about three miles below town. She had been sick and grown very despondent. Night before last her husband was startled by his wife getting up and going out the door saying to him as she went out: "Good-by, Riley." The midnight freight was coming and she got on the track and started to meet the engine. Her husband ran after her, but could not catch her, and had to jump from the track just as the train whizzed by, the lifeless body of his wife being thrown by the engine almost at his feet.

POISONED OR NOT.

Mrs. Geo. Reddish died at her home near Horton last Saturday evening at 5 o'clock, under suspicious circumstances. She was apparently well until within a few minutes of her death. She was taken with violent fits, and when her brother Mr. Early arrived Sunday he began an investigation and stopped the burial just as she was being lowered into the grave. Mr. Early called on Judge Morton early Monday morning and asked that he send two doctors to make a thorough examination. Drs. E. W. Ford, E. B. Pendleton and G. B. Slack went out to Reddish's home, and together with Esq. A. S. Aull made an examination. The doctors are still at work on the post-mortem, and the case was continued until Monday when it will be resumed at Hartford.

THE RELIEF TRAIN.

"No relief train again to-day, Maria," said Mr. Guthrie in answer to the inquiring look of his expectant wife. "The storm is so severe." He continued "that the train is unable to make any progress against it."

Mrs. Guthrie walked back to the bed and gathered the ragged blankets close about her three little girls and brought tears to the eyes of her husband by saying, "poor things, they have not had a morsel of food for two whole days, and it is so dreadfully cold and no fuel."

The Guthries live in the drouth-stricken portion of Nebraska, and the incident related above took place during that awful February blizzard. The next day Mr. Guthrie in common with many others of the destitute citizens waited patiently at the railroad station for the relief train that never came.

"No train again to-day," said Mr. Guthrie to his wife who met him at the door.

"Heaven hasten the morrow then," replied Mrs. Guthrie hopefully.

"To-morrow brings no hope Maria, the train was stopped about 30 miles up the line by the hungry citizens and all, of its contents appropriated."

"The cruel, barbarous hords," exclaimed Mrs. Guthrie, "to steal the bread from our starving children. There is a judgment reserved for such people."

"Unfortunate as it is for us Maria, it must be said those men have starving children of their own, and I doubt much if a provision train could have escaped similar treatment down at our own station to-day."

It was a bitter night, the snow was being driven through the crevices of the thin board wall and falling here and there on the bed occupied by the children, who were fast becoming famished for food and benumbed with cold. The two elder children, though only seven and nine, spared their heart-broken parents further anguish by not calling for that which could not be had, but little Mary, to young to understand the enforced privations, begged again and again for bread. As night came on the storm redoubled its fury, adding new horror to the situation. Mrs. Guthrie stirred the embers again and again, but it was useless, they had exhausted. She returned to the bed and after remaining there some moments, she approached Mr. Guthrie, who sat in a corner with his head bowed upon his knee, and said in a low tone to be heard by the children:

"I don't believe little Mary can last through the night," and kneeling beside her husband burst into tears and said: "Heaven forgive me for sending poor Jim away." Jim was her stepson whom she had driven from home some three years before, "he might have been able to help us in this awful time, I would walk five miles through this driving storm to beg his forgiveness."

"You need not go that far, mother," came a voice from the door, and the long absent Jim was again under the parental roof. After receiving repeated caresses from Mrs. Guthrie and the children, Jim began unloading from a wagon at the door, fuel, blankets, edibles and the many things so needed for the comfort of the family. The patron of sleep was honored only by the children in the Guthrie household that night.

BETHLE.

The Ripe Fruit of Diplomacy.

So that is what it has all been about. We supposed it was something great, but were scarcely prepared for anything as great as this. When the Consecrated One went into profound seclusion at Woodley, and faithful Thurber, with finger at lip, stood guard and whispered to all comers

"Hill! There's a hen on!" and the Government printing presses fairly whizzed in turning out copies of the Monroe Doctrine, and the vasty deep of the Atlantic began to sizzle with the heating of the cables under pressure of "assurances," there was no room for doubt. Something was going to happen. It now has happened. And without hesitation we must declare that it surpasses our most sanguine anticipations.

The country has been assured a thousand times that the Government at Washington was looking out for the Nicaraguan affair. No matter if it did seem slack and negligent. That was merely the shrewd disguise of deep diplomacy. The Great Mind was at work, making a deal with John Bull, in which John Bull would surely get the worst of it. British ships at Corinto? British dominion established over a part of Nicaragua? No matter. Those were trifles. Mr. Bayard was in London, and the Great and Good Friends of all earthly potentates was at Woodley. What more could a reasonable man want? The matter would be settled with dignity and honor; be sure of that.

Well, it has been settled. But by whom? Sir Edward Grey should be a competent witness. He tells us squarely that the United States has never tendered its offices in the matter, and has never even suggested terms for an amicable settlement. What, then, were all those "assurances" about? At what has all this Cleveland-Bayard-Paunefote diplomacy been driving? Unless Sir Edward Grey speaks falsely, and of that he has never been accused, the Washington Government has done nothing, attempted nothing, suggested nothing. It has passed by on the other side, without even a word, leaving Nicaragua to the tender mercies of whosoever might play the role of international highwayman.

Oh, but really nothing could be done? Nevertheless, something has been done, and the affair is settled. But it is little Salvador that has done it. That petty Commonwealth, not as big or as populous as a single county of one of the United States, has with ease accomplished that which this whole country could not do. At its word Nicaragua is saved, and the British fleets retire from Corinto. Salvador is the champion of American independence, the tutelary genius of the Western Hemisphere. Henceforward all states, from Mexico to the River Plate, must look to Salvador for guidance and protection. Perhaps even the United States may one day be glad to nestle under the Salvadorian wing.

What a consummation it is of consecrated diplomacy! But the big presses keep on rolling out copies of the Monroe Doctrine, and Buffer and Boots rush frantically about town in cabs, and the Woodley sky is "deeply, darkly, desperately blue," and Mr. Bayard is, beyond all doubt, the most popular Englishman in London. What Secretary Gresham thinks of it may be left unexpressed. He, at least, is an American and would, if unhampered by his consecrated chief, act as befits one worthy of the name.

What the American people think about it, even the wayfarer man must know. And as for what Mr. Cleveland thinks about it, his own special handiwork, who knows? Who cares?—[Y. Tribune.]

SHREVE.

As quite a number get the REPUBLICAN at this office and I scarcely ever see a communication from this place, thought it nothing but right both for the paper and the people that something should be from these parts, and after waiting for some one else better suited to give the items, and sentiments of the people, I come a guest uninvited to your columns.

There seems to be unusual activity among the farmers, and it seems that providence is smiling upon their efforts, as the weather has been unusually favorable, and most farmers are done planting corn. Wheat whose acreage has been increased fifty fold in this part of the county within the last five years is fast recovering from its injuries from the early Spring freezes.

The people generally seem to wear a hopeful expression of countenance. We have the best common school we have ever had, and we have had a good school for the last five years, under the same teacher. The district has been a small one and this year we waited until Mr. Godsey taught one other school before teaching this, which other schools being closed enabled us to get quite a number of pay pupils from adjoining districts. We have succeeded in getting the district enlarged and the people are fully aroused to the importance of a good school, and ere long we hope to have a graded school established here. The school gave an entertainment on the night of the fourth to quite a large and attentive audience. It was by far the best entertainment I ever witnessed outside of a Theatre, both as to the nature of the pieces acted and those played the different parts as they were extremely well drilled, had a large and well arranged stage, and had a splendid manager.

But the prospects of the farmer and for a graded school is not the only reason I can give for the pleasant smiles that come to play upon the faces of our people. The unity and determination upon the part of the Republicans of the entire State seems to clearly indicate a grand Republican victory in this grand old State. When our precinct was first established there were about fifty majority in favor of the Democratic party, but in spite of the heroic efforts of that party we came out last fall in an even race.

But let us not be too much assured, it will take fighting to elect that great Statesman, William O. Bradley.

The Cut Worms Are Bad.

Several farmers were standing together on the street Sunday when a Ketchikan representative walked up and casually inquired if there were any cut worms this season.

"Cut worms? Well I should say so," remarked one of them. They have cleaned up my garden, my cornfield and have now started on my clover. Never saw 'em as bad in my life.

"Yes they are pretty bad this season," said Charlie Knight. I have found as many as two dozen in one hill of corn and under one mullen stalk I pulled up I counted 139 of all ages, sizes and sexes.

At this stage Mr. J. D. Shepherd put in and said: "Mind you, I don't say I saw this, but I heard one of my neighbors say that he killed up a piece of ground late one evening for cabbage and when he went to plant the cabbage next morning, his hills were gone. They had crawled away." This reminded John Van Cleave of the experience of one of his neighbors, whose name we failed to catch. He said a piece of corn land had been laid off and the next morning the ground appeared perfectly level and smooth. The worms in their eagerness to be in time had taken possession of the rows until they were filled up level with the ground.—[Hopkinsville Ketchikan.]

Keep the Baby Fat.

"My baby was a living skeleton. The doctors said he was dying of Marasmus, Indigestion, etc. The various foods I tried seemed to keep him alive, but did not strengthen or fatten him. At thirteen months old he weighed exactly what he did at birth—seven pounds. I began using 'SCOTT'S EMULSION,' sometimes putting a few drops in his bottle, then again feeding it with a spoon; then again by the absorption method of rubbing it into his body. The effect was marvelous. Baby began to stouten and fatten, and became a beautiful dimpled boy, a wonder to all. SCOTT'S EMULSION supplied the one thing needed."

"MRS. KENNON WILLIAMS."

Scott's Emulsion

is especially useful for sickly, delicate children when their other food fails to nourish them. It supplies in a concentrated, easily digestible form, just the nourishment they need to build them up and give them health and strength. It is Cod-liver Oil made palatable and easy to assimilate, combined with the Hypophosphites, both of which are most remarkable nutrients.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so; as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron-clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure.) For $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO CENT STAMPS FOR SAMPLE BOX. Booklets and proofs free.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 7, 1894.

Eureka Chemical and Mfg Co., La Crosse, Wis.
Dear Sirs,—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physicians told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being, at least. I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which ever inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours very truly, C. W. HORNICK.
